Soundline NORTH SHORE, LONG ISLAND

Free · Ages 10 to 13

Build an instrument out of junk. Make it play.

Then explain to a room full of grown-ups exactly why it works. That part is the point.

Saturdays, 10 to 11:30, this winter

Nothing to bring. Parents come at 11:15.

Save a spot: soundlineschool.com/build

Is your kid doing fine on paper and quietly checked out?

Soundline is a new independent middle school opening on Long Island's North Shore in September 2027: grades six through eight, ten to twelve in a grade, two hours of practice every morning and four hours of making, one advisor who stays with your child for all three years. Grouped by skill, not age. Every six weeks, something made and defended out loud.

$1,500 a month; founding families $1,350, held through twelfth grade. No fees on top. We don't have a lease yet, so the $500 that reserves a seat sits with an independent escrow agent and comes back in full until the day one is signed.

Fifteen minutes on the phone about your child, not the school: soundlineschool.com/talk

See it first. Free Saturday builds.

Nov 21	Instrument lab
Dec 5	The Quest
Dec 12	Build, then the parents' half hour
Dec 19	World percussion: the Showcase
Dec 29–31	Winter Quest, three mornings
Jan 9	Bring a friend

Drop off at ten; come back at 11:15 and watch your own child explain what they made.